

Delivery under Construction Management

What is different to Design and Build?

- Wordsworth is employed as a Consultant working for the Employer, based on an agreed fixed fee
- Wordsworth is engaged early to give construction, buildability and procurement advice
- Principal Contractor, programme, safety, quality, financial management and reporting are all the responsibility of Wordsworth, under a fixed percentage fee
- Costs are agreed up front and are transparent - not hidden in a Contract Sum Analysis
- Items like supervision, accommodation, hoardings and temporary works are all tendered and negotiated in an open book way
- Wordsworth work with the Employer and wider construction team to agree Trade Packages and Trade Package Contractors
- Wordsworth manage the procurement of Trade Contractors on behalf of the Employer
- The trades package contractors are employed directly by the Employer
- Payments are made directly by the Employer to the package contractors - so fair payments, better buying and complete transparency
- Construction Management is 5% cheaper than D&B due to fundamental difference between CM and Contractors
- The design is retained by the Employer - no erosion of the design
- Every team member's effort is directed at the success of the scheme - not gaining back profit
